Our Story: Jerry Lasch is a licensed real estate broker and general contractor who has developed Pineview Estates in Shawano, it has become a popular townhome development that continues to grow today. Jerry teamed up with Chris Joy who is residential designer to address a need for ease of life living in Clintonville. Chris saw a need for this style of home after his mother could not find an easier place to live when her home became too difficult to maintain and get around in with different levels. Our townhomes are designed with a focus to stay in your home through any difficulties that may come your way. With wide entry doors and a bathroom that is handicap accessible and will be ready if you need in-home assisted living. With the lawn care and snow removal provided one can have peace of mind that the property will be well kept without the strain on your body.
